PRESIDENT OFF FOR STUDY OF FARM PROBLEMS

Roosevelt Speeding Into Drought Ridden Region In Northwest

AAA MAPS CONFERENCES

Further Crop Production Loans to Be Asked of Next Congress

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26—(UP)—Federal officials, headed by President Roosevelt, went to the farmers today to learn first-hand of drought problems and to discuss a 1937 farm program.

While President Roosevelt sped to the northwest, AAA officials met with farmers at Enid, Okla., and Amarillo, Tex. Other conferences will be held later throughout the drought belt.

Congress will be asked next session to make available additional crop production loans, Mr. Roosevelt said. The Department of Agriculture is negotiating for seed corn loans expected to total $12,000,000.

To Revise Program

AAA officials are expected to urge upon next congress a revision of soil conservation program to deal with crop surpluses and drought problems.

Operation of the conservation program this year, officials said, has provided forage crops for livestock through shifting of land from "soil depleting" crops such as corn, cotton and wheat to "soil building" legumes and grasses.

Because of these forage crops officials said, the government has purchased only 3,029 head of livestock in drought areas compared with the more than 4,000,000 cattle bought at this time in the 1934 drought.

While the drought may force some modification of the conservation program.

ELEVEN KILLED AS RUSS PLANE FALLS IN RIVER

MOSCOW, Aug. 25—(UP)—Eleven persons were killed and three injured when an airplane bearing local officials crashed in the Enisei river in Asiatic Russia, it was learned here today.

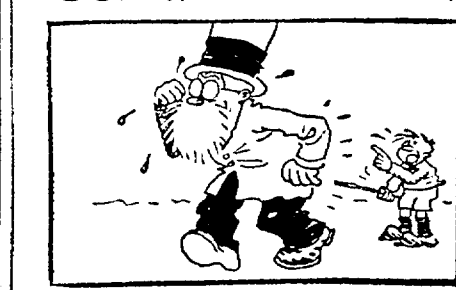

This is Russia's greatest aviation disaster since the crash of the Maxim Gorki, world's greatest land plane, in 1934 when 49 persons died.

The accident happened near the town of Krasnoyarsk, nearly 5,000 miles east of here.

A child and two women were among the dead, although most of the passengers were officials of the regional government.

Pilot Kukanov was seriously injured.

President Roosevelt Governor Herring Governor Landon
The eyes of the nation are on this building, the state capitol in Des Moines, Ia. For in Governor Clyde L. Herring's office in this building President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and his presidential opponent, Governor Alfred M. Landon of Kansas, will meet, shake hands and discuss the drought, which has stricken some 500,000 families in western United States. A crowd of approximately 200,000 people is expected to assemble in Des Moines for the occasion, set for September 1. Several other governors will attend.

EUROPE ENGAGES IN LARGE SCALE DRESS REHEARSAL FOR NEXT WAR

RICH GERMANS FACING NEW TAX

Cost of Enlarged Army May Be Imposed on Great Property Owners

BERLIN, Aug. 26—(UP)—The third Reich's decision to enlarge its army may result in a general levy on property of the rich to uniform and equip the expanding military forces, it was widely reported today.

The determination of the wealthy families that Germany should keep pace with the "threat of Bolshevism" was expected to overcome to some extent their natural objection to digging into their pocketbooks. Alarm over Soviet Russia's growing military power is increasing here daily.

In the past money for armament as well as for thousands of public works projects has been collected by the state through repeated issues of short term paper. These issues have now reached the tremendous total of 25,000,000 marks. As a result there is fear that the banks and insurance companies, largest purchasers of the state securities, will become checked with them.

Knowledge of this condition in business circles has led to the reports of the approaching property levy. Official sources decline to confirm it.

DAVEY TO HEAR CASE OF OHIO'S JEAN VALJEAN

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22—(UP)—Governor Martin L. Davey personally will hear Oklahoma's extradition request for Carlton Chilton, Cleveland's Jean Valjean, it was announced today.

The governor will conduct the hearing in his office here Aug. 31, he said today. Necessary papers for the formal extradition request were enroute from Oklahoma.

Usually the governor delegates this type of hearing to an executive, Charles Leasure.

Chilton, now a respected citizen in Cleveland, has been a fugitive from Oklahoma for 23 years. He was convicted of robbing a bank in 1913, pleaded guilty when captured and was sentenced to serve two years in Granite reformatory. He escaped shortly after his imprisonment.

PARIS, Aug. 26—(UP)—Europe today engaged in a dress rehearsal for war.

General staffs of the European powers directed military maneuvers while their governments looked suspiciously across frontiers at the war games of their potential "enemies."

Military maneuvers on varying scales were in progress today in France, Germany, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Hungary, Bulgaria, Austria, Italy and Russia.

The large scale war rehearsal programs of the big powers are:

Italy: more than 60,000 soldiers, 3,000 officers, 3,000 non-commissioned officers, 400 pieces of artillery, 2,300 trucks, 1,000 motor-cycles and 650 horses are engaging in maneuvers in the Avellino area. Grim-visaged Mussolini pays periodic visits to the "front."

France: Just north of the world war battlegrounds of Verdun and the Meuse, French troops are maneuvering, testing their ability to mobilize quickly against a German invasion. The French general staff intends fully to man the famous Maginot line of concrete forts along its northern border within six hours. Meanwhile, the air force is carrying on war games.

Great Britain: The rejuvenated army, navy and air force are testing their defensive ability along the southern coast between Devonport and Plymouth. At the same time naval maneuvers are being carried out around the strongly fortified base at Malta.

Russia: The red air force, estimated at 4,000 planes, is testing its wings. On Sept. 8 the Red army, the world's largest (1,300,000 men) will start far-ranging war games. The unusual secrecy maintained by the war office forbids details.

Germany: Several hundred thousand of the new Reich's soldiers have been on maneuvers for several weeks. Germany has thrown fear into the governments of France and Russia by its announcement of a two year conscription policy, estimated to give it a standing force of 750,000 men.

And, providing a comedy-relief to this grim drama, even tiny Andorra on the Spanish-French border, has decided, as a result of the menace of the Spanish civil war to mobilize a class of reserves to strengthen its national guard of 11 men.

OHIO WPA EMPLOYMENT SHOWS SLIGHT INCREASE

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 26—(UP)—WPA employment in Ohio increased 814 persons last week, state headquarters, announced here today. There were 148,448 persons employed on 365 projects during the week ended Aug. 22 against 147,634 on 352 of Aug. 15.

BRIDE COMPLAINS ABOUT SPOUSE OBEYING CURFEW

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26—(UP)—Metta Nadine Shuler, 18, bride of Jack Shuler, also 18, told a divorce court her husband's father, a pastor, ended his son's honeymoon nights at 10 p. m. The father, she said, made him come home by that time every night. She wants a divorce.

LANDON READY TO BID FOR N. Y.

Republicans Voice Belief Roosevelt's State Will Go to G.O.P.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 26—(UP)—Gov. Alf. M. Landon will make a major bid tonight for New York's pivotal support in the November election. Republicans are increasingly confident that President Roosevelt's home state will return a plurality vote against the Democratic administration.

The governor today is at the center of New York state party problems. A faction among Republican leaders expects him to settle a controversy over who shall be the party nominee for governor to oppose Democracy's incumbent Herbert H. Lehman. And there is a hot battle on between State Chairman Melvin C. Eaton and Erie County Chairman E. F. Jaekle who wants Eaton's job.

Gov. Landon is understood to be dodging the referee role so far as possible, in conference with county and state leaders.

A rumor, unconfirmed but interesting, circulating today was that William Lemke, presidential candidate of the Union party, contemplated putting a Jewish gubernatorial candidate in the field. Such a move would be interpreted by some observers as unfavorable to Democratic chances in November because Gov. Lehman's candidacy (Continued on Page Eight)

MOTHER FINED FOR ABUSE OF FOUR CHILDREN

Mrs. Eleanor Funk, 24, of Derby, was committed to the county jail Tuesday afternoon by Squire H. O. Eveland to serve out a fine of $100 and costs for abandoning and abusing four children.

Eveland said testimony was to the effect Mrs. Funk left her home Sunday morning and failed to return. He said one of the children was tied to a chair with wool twine during the recent Derby homecoming celebration and was released by a constable.

The case was transferred to Eveland's court from the court of Dennis Kautz, justice of the peace of Derby township. Everett Funk, the husband, filed the charge.

Mrs. Funk was arrested Tuesday in Mt. Sterling by John Stage, Jr., constable, at the home of a relative.

COMMUNISTS JAILED

WARSAW, Aug. 26—(UP)—Twenty alleged communists, none of them prominent, have been arrested in the last several days in routine police cleanups.

Meanwhile, Trotsky may remain only under more drastic requirements of non-political activities, the government said.

A police guard has been posted around the famous revolutionary's home, it was announced, because of threats against him by communists in Moscow.

BLACK CHIEF EVADES OHIO'S POLICE

Bert Effinger Disappears Following Hearing On Extradition

INDICTED IN DETROIT

Fugitive Warrant Issued for Arrest of Accused Chief-tain From Lima

LIMA, O., Aug. 26—(UP)—Following a fruitless all-night search, police here today still were trying to find Virgil H. Effinger, alleged national leader of the Black Legion.

The 63-year-old Effinger is under indictment in Detroit, accused of violating Michigan's criminal syndicalism law.

The hunt began immediately after Alfred E. Ferrell, special investigator for the Wayne county (Mich.) grand jury had filed Tuesday night, in Lima municipal court, an affidavit on which a fugitive warrant was issued for Effinger.

Return to Lima

Effinger and his attorney, Clarence C. Miller, were reported to have returned to Lima late Tuesday from Columbus, where a hearing was held before Charles Leasure, executive secretary to Governor Martin Davey, on the extradition of Effinger to Michigan.

Not only could Effinger not be found by police, deputy sheriffs and State Highway patrolmen, but Attorney Miller also could not be located. Mrs. Effinger said the two men had left immediately after returning home last night, and that Effinger said he would be home later.

It was thought Effinger might want to evade arrest until arrangements could be made for a hearing in Allen county common pleas court here.

Court Fight Planned

Before going to the Columbus extradition hearing, Miller said that if the case were decided against his client, a common pleas hearing on the sufficiency of the indictment would be sought in Lima.

The fugitive warrant said Effinger "is a fugitive from justice from the state of Michigan where he stands charged with criminal syndicalism; that Effinger from January 1, 1935, until August 15, 1935, on different occasions, while in Michigan, did state that he and other members of a secret order, the Black Legion, would take over the government of the United States, on the 16th day of September, 1936, which said acts were, by the laws of said state of Michigan, an offense and which said acts, if they had been committed in the state of Ohio, by the laws thereof, would have been a crime."

BOY DISCOVERS WAR IS NOT ALL POMP OR GLORY

MADRID, Aug. 26—(UP)—Lack of sleep and fresh clothes more than rebel bullets worry Tomas Carro, 16-year-old office boy of the United Press Madrid bureau who is fighting the insurgents.

Young Carro, whose father was killed recently by fascists, decided to desert his waste-baskets for the life of a soldier, but has decided the military life isn't so glamorous, after all.

In the first of his "post-card dispatches" to the bureau here, Carro reported that "we live like princes."

Next day his message was in a soberer tone.

"The loyal artillery," he said, began firing so we couldn't sleep—and you know how I like sleep."

The next time, he wrote: "If any of you are coming up here please bring me a change of clothes because I have nothing but what I have been wearing."

Tomas is beginning to believe Sherman was right.

The second annual fish fry, chicken supper and homecoming celebration will be staged Saturday afternoon in Tarlton. The general public is invited.

Visitors will be shown the new state park. There will be a band concert and a program of old-fashioned amusements.

TARLTON PREPARES FOR BIG ANNUAL FISH FRY

The second annual fish fry, chicken supper and homecoming celebration will be staged Saturday afternoon in Tarlton. The general public is invited.

Visitors will be shown the new state park. There will be a band concert and a program of old-fashioned amusements.

LEAVE COUNTRY, SWEDEN TELLS LEON TROTSKY

OSLO, Aug. 26—(UP)—The Norwegian government today ruled that Leon Trotsky, accused by the Soviet government of planning the assassination of Joseph Stalin, had violated his conditions of Asylum and must leave the country by December 18.

Meanwhile, Trotsky may remain only under more drastic requirements of non-political activities, the government said.

"DRY SPECIAL" HEADING WEST WITH PRESIDENT

ABOARD ROOSEVELT SPECIAL, Aug. 26—(UP)—President Roosevelt conferred with drought relief officials aboard his "dust-bowl special" today en route to the parched northwest for a series of conferences with governors and others.

He received reports indicating continued spread of drought damage and increased need for relief from Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, WPA administrator Harry Hopkins, Gov. William I. Myers of the farm credit administration and Director Robert Fenchner of the emergency conservation corps.

The presidential special left Washington shortly before midnight last night with Bismark, N. D., the first stop. There Mr. Roosevelt and his aides will begin tomorrow the first of several conferences with governors of 16 states.

The 10-day, 3,000-mile tour will take the president into the Dakotas, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri for personal inspections of drought damage. Frequent stops will be made along the route for conferences with local officials and for first hand surveys of damage wrought to crops and livestock in the stricken area.

TWO NEW DEAL STALWARTS WIN SENATE POSTS

BY UNITED PRESS

Two administration stalwarts, challenged in their home states on the New Deal issue, were returned to the senate today.

Sen. Pat Harrison of Mississippi, who had been termed by his opponent for the Democratic senatorial nomination, Former Gov. Martin S. Conner, "President Roosevelt's rubber stamp," led by more than two to one in nearly complete returns from yesterday's primary.

In South Carolina, Sen. James F. Byrnes had almost seven times the votes of his two anti-administration opponents for the Democratic senatorial nomination on the basis of part returns.

In both South Carolina and Mississippi, the Democratic nomination is tantamount to election.

In California, a test of the political strength of the followers of the Townsend old age pension plan in yesterday's congressional and state primaries, had produced nothing definitive in early returns. Eleven congressmen endorsed by Townsend organizations, seemed assured of renomination. In other contents Townsend candidates were trailing.

CLIMAX NEAR

The climax of the war may be near. Even if the rebels win, however and overthrow the Madrid government, fighting and slaughter may go on for a long time. The resistance of the workers, anarchists, communists and other left elements would disintegrate slowly, and there undoubtedly would be much slaughter.

Europe watched the situation uneasily, but there was considerably less fear of other powers becoming involved. The threat of a possible future European war was ever present, however.

Germany, proceeding with the enlargement of its standing army, considered a general levy on the rich to meet the cost.

STALIN WARNS RUSS ARMY TO GIRD FOR WAR

LONDON, Aug. 26—(UP)—The London Evening News today quoted Joseph Stalin as warning the Soviet public in a radio address to be prepared for "momentous events" as its enemies are "getting into position."

Stalin, who seldom uses the radio, spoke primarily to the Red army, just beginning its maneuvers. He was quoted as saying: "We are on the very eve of momentous events. Any moment now you may be called upon to lay down your lives in defense of the proletarian fatherland."

"It is a moment which you have been expecting and now your birthright is expecting you to do the duty you so eagerly awaited. I have no doubts about you and feel convinced you have no doubts about your leaders. Our enemies are getting into position—they are ready. Those on the frontiers of our great land are keeping watch."

MADRID WATER SUPPLY FALLS IN REBEL HANDS

Leftist Government's Fate Hangs In Balance As Slaughter Continues

RIGHTISTS ADVANCING

Loyalists Believed Ready To Execute Thousands Before Surrendering

GIBRALTAR, Aug. 26—(UP)—The Seville radio station announced today that the forces of Gen. Emilio Mola, northern rebel commander, had captured the Lozoya river region in the Guadarrama mountains, Madrid's main source of water supply.

The Seville radio said the rebels had captured the Rio Tinto mining region in Huelva province on the south coast, the miners surrendering unconditionally.

BY UNITED PRESS

News from Spain today indicated that the leftist government is in a precarious position and its fate is in the balance.

The forces of the rightist rebels were definitely on the aggressive, especially in the far north and west of Madrid. Despite optimistic government statements, the rebels appeared to be making some gains.

Cities in Danger

The position of San Sebastian and Irun, on the north coast adjoining France, was one of extreme danger.

The city was bombarded from the air and by artillery, with considerable damage and casualties. The rebel attack lull during the afternoon, but was expected to be resumed at any time. The fate of thousands of rebel hostages in Irun and San Sebastian was in doubt and it was feared the loyalists would massacre them before they are forced to surrender.

Heavy fighting also was in progress at Oviedo, the important center near the northwest coast, where capture would release important rebel forces for use at San Sebastian, if necessary, and then for the drive on Madrid.

Cream of Nation's Flyers Ready
To Go After $70,000 In Prizes

Los Angeles prepares for National Air races.

By ANDREW R. BOONE
Central Press Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26—With nearly $70,000 in prize money dangling beyond their props, the cream of the nation's birdmen will wing their way westward from all parts of the United States in a few days for the 1936 National Air Races to be held in Los Angeles. Features of the four-days racing meet will be:

1. The Bendix Trophy race, an international free-for-all in which pilots will compete for a purse of $25,000. The flyers probably will include Col. Roscoe Turner, Harold Gatty, Ben O. Howard, winner of last year's transcontinental dash; George Haldeman, S. J. Wittman, Laura Ingalls and Jacqueline Cochran.

2. The Thompson Trophy race, a closed course free-for-all for men pilots only, carrying a total purse of $20,000. Many of the same pilots and planes will attempt to lower the present National Air Race record of 252,686 miles an hour.

3. The Ruth Chatterton Sportsman Pilot Trophy race, designed to stress accurate cruising and safe altitudes over favorable terrain with safety. This contest will start with an east wing from Cleveland to Dallas and a west wing from Dallas to Los Angeles. A purse of $5,000 will reward the winners.

4. Other closed circuit and speed dashes at the Los Angeles Municipal airport.

The National Air Races this year commemorates its sixteenth anniversary, and will surpass any event of its kind ever held. Several new, faster and more powerful planes, some of them nothing more than flying engines, have been designed and built by the world's best aeronautical engineers and pilots for the show.

All Being Prized

Other planes, whose sides are covered with speed records established in the past, are being rebuilt or are undergoing radical changes with new, more powerful engines being installed in order to enable them to keep up with the aviation industry's constant demand for speed and more speed.

The National Air Races, like the Indianapolis automobile road races, are the proving grounds for the aeronautical industry. The speed record established not many years ago in the first Bendix transcontinental race, that grueling test of men, engines and design, hailed as sensational then, is not as fast as the routine time schedule for the huge transport planes carrying passengers, mail and express across the country today.

This year's air races will be international in scope, with foreign flyers from England and Europe testing their skill and the speed of their latest creations with the best that America has to offer. It will be a fast, roaring pace set with no quarter asked or given.

Foreign Entries

Michel Detroyat, champion French acrobatic airman, was among the first of the foreign pilots to announce his entry into the Thompson Trophy race, the world's air speed classic, which requires a qualifying speed of 225 miles an hour. He will bring his famous Caudron-Renault racing plane to this country for the first time and will try to annex the $2,500 offered to the one successful in breaking the present record.

Gerd Achgelis, German stunt flyer, will attempt to set a new upside-down flight record.

From England will come Miss Peggy Salaman, British society girl, an outstanding European flyer. She is entered in the Ruth Chatterton Trophy race for sportsmen pilots—men and women. More than 100 private owners, who fly purely for sport, are expected to enter this event, which will leave Cleveland, August 29, on a handi-cap tour, fly southwestward and arrive in Los Angeles on September 4. Miss Salaman, as a 19-year-old London society debutante with only 50 hours flying time to her credit broke all existing records in November, 1931, for the 7,000-mile London to Capetown flight.

All-Star Cast

The line-up of pilots will find an all-star cast of famous American speed pilots assembled, yet an interesting feature this year will be the appearance of several "unknowns" who have not been flying as many years as the veterans. Nevertheless they are capable, experienced and determined to wrest fame and fortune from the old-timers.

As in previous races picked squadrons of units of Uncle Sam's fighting forces will provide intricate combat maneuvers and beautiful formations together with precision flying that has stirred audiences in the past. For this year's show navy officials from San Diego are sending 18 Grauman fighters and 12 Marine Vought Wasp-powered Corsairs to take part in the affair.

A two-year epidemic of bubonic plague in ancient Greece killed off one-third of the people of the Athenian Republic.

LONG QUARTET TO APPEAR AT MOUNT PRAISE

The Long Quartet, an evangelistic musical organization of Denver, Colo., will present a series of programs at the Mount of Praise camp grounds Thursday.

The Quartet, officials said, has played on vaudeville throughout this country and Europe. Members will tell of some of the implements of torture used on the early Christians which they saw in the Tower of London; also of the King's parade, and some of the points of interest in England.

Members of the quartet play saxophones, accordions, violins and are singers. They have appeared on many radio programs.

Approximately 2,500 persons attended services at the camp grounds Monday. Officials expect average crowds during the week.

Five camp ground officials were guests of Mayor and Mrs. W. J. Graham at a dinner in their home Monday evening. They were: Rev. T. M. Anderson, Wilmore, Ky., and Rev. Charles Slater, Pasadena, Cal. evangelists; Rev. O. L. Ferguson, pastor of the local church, and Mrs. Ferguson, and Miss Edna Kunkle, returned missionary from China.

CALLED IN RUM
RACKET PROBE

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 26—(UP)—A second effort was to be made today to have Francis W. Poulson, state Democratic chairman, appear before the state liquor board in connection with its investigation of charges that a Columbus liquor-permit holder was obliged to pay money to Democratic party leaders for "protection of his permit."

John C. Thompson, Cincinnati, member of the state liquor board, ordered a second subpoena issued for Poulson's appearance yesterday, when the state chairman failed to appear in answer to the first summons.

In an effort to trace checks allegedly given by Clarence B. Harrison, the complaining permit-holder, for the "protection," the board also subpoenaed W. R. Cox and Martin Gardner, employees of the Jeffrey Manufacturing Co., Columbus, the comptroller of the company, and Mrs. Effie Faschind, employee of the Desher-Wallick hotel here.

LONG MISSING JURIST ALIVE, MINER CLAIMS

Aged Prospector Relates Story of Meeting With Joseph Crater
POLICE PROBING TALE
Judge Declares Himself Through With World, Says Informer

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.—(UP)—An old prospector's story that a fellow desert wanderer identified himself as the long-missing Judge Joseph Crater, of New York, was being checked today by police preparatory to an 'actual search' for the jurist.

The mysterious disappearance of Supreme Court Justice Crater has remained unsolved for six years since he walked out of a night club in New York and into a taxi-cab, never to be heard from again.

The strange tale of seeing the missing judge in the lonely Cuyamaca mountains of San Diego county was told to Capt. W. C. Allen of the police missing persons detail by a sunburned prospector who identified himself as Lucky Blackett, 65.

Although the description of the prospector claiming to be Judge Crater tallied in many respects with that of the missing jurist, police were reluctant to start search until convinced Blackett actually had seen the judge.

Story Doubtful
San Diego county authorities pointed out that a physical search of the Cuyamaca mountain area might take many weeks. The desolate area is far from regular highways and can be reached only over burro trails. Although Blackett claimed that he contacted the prospector claiming to be Judge Crater only last week, San Diego police reported he had told the same story there 10 days ago.

Blackett informed Capt. Allen that he met the other prospector while crossing a mountain pass with his burros. He said they stopped to chat for a few minutes.

"We sat around a campfire and the big fellow said to me, 'I'm that supreme court justice who disappeared six years ago in New York,'" Blackett recalled.

Blackett said his chance acquaintance told him that he was "done with civilization. One more year and they will think I am dead."

Description Given
The supposed missing jurist was described by Blackett as about 60 years old, weighing about 200 pounds and about five feet, nine inches tall.

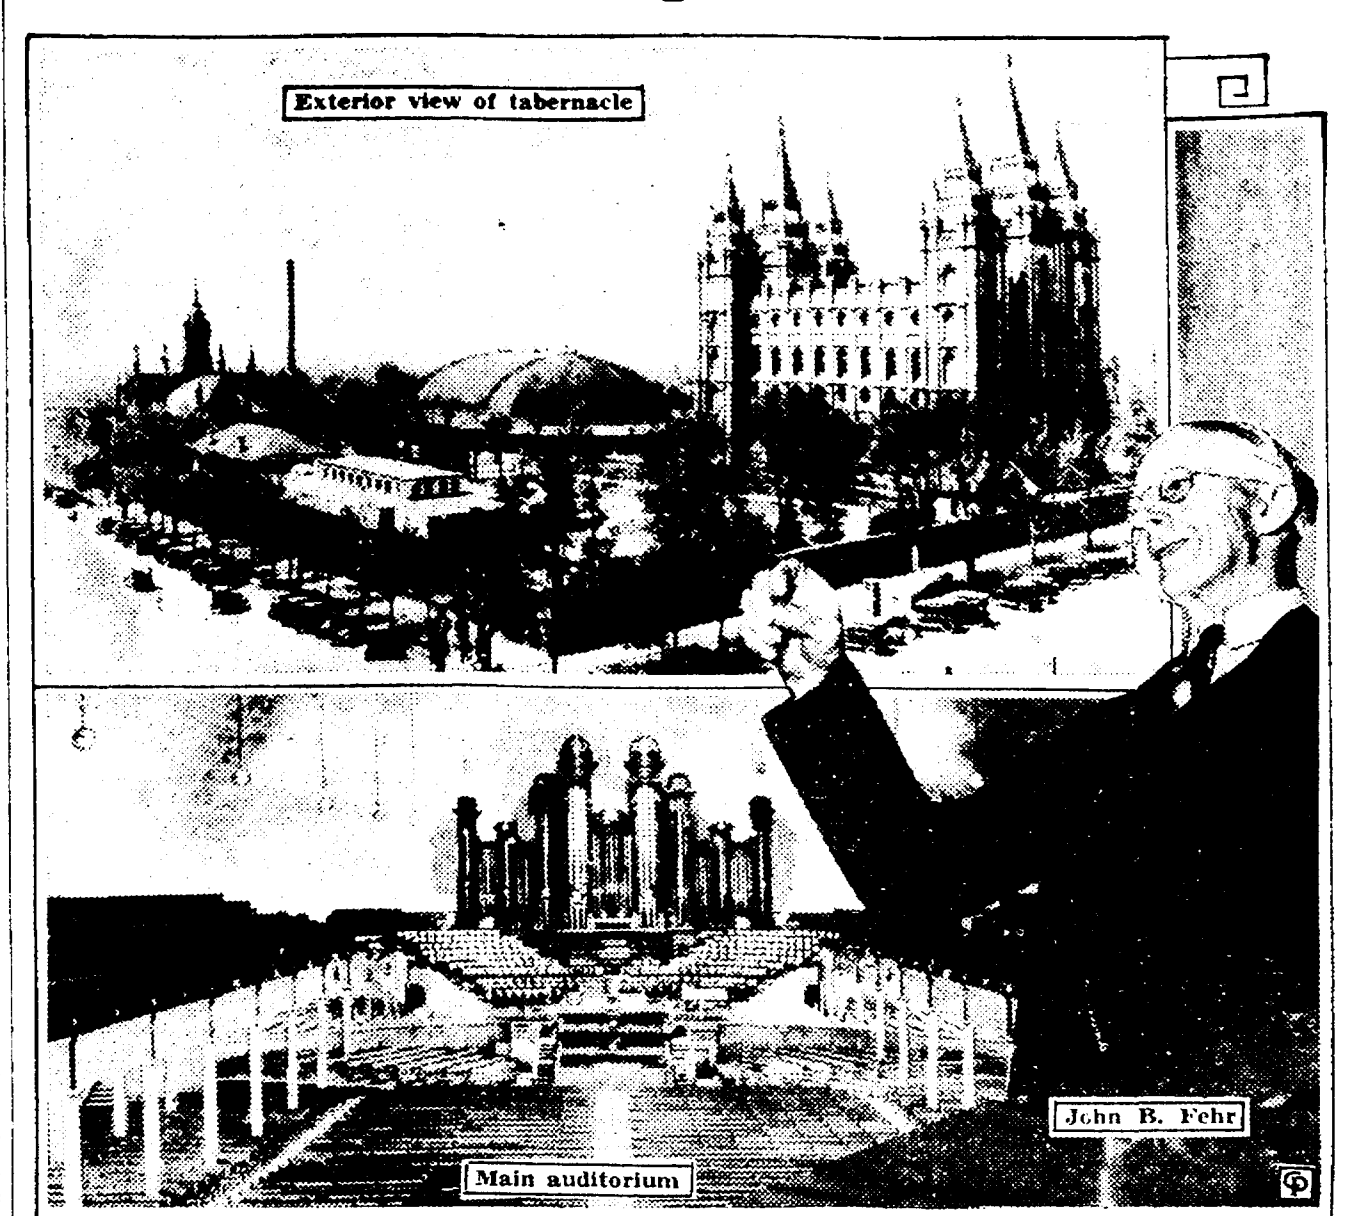

Capt. Allen wired John J. Seery of the New York police department for a description of the missing judge and other details of the case. The New York officer answered that the description given by Blackett was similar to that of Crater, except that the judge weighed about 185 pounds when he disappeared.

Blackett said he made no attempt to get additional information from the other prospector, declaring:

"I'm a man who minds his own business. I went my way and he went his. Later I got to thinking it over and decided to tell police about it. They can take it or leave it."

Judge Crater disappeared on the evening of August 6, 1930 after waving goodbye to a showgirl at the night club. He was believed to have had around $20,000 in his possession at the time.

Noise of Pin Drop Like Pistol Shot

One of the most unusual architectural feats in United States is the giant umbrella-shaped Latter Day Saints tabernacle at Salt Lake City where the acoustics are so near perfect that a pin dropped by Custodian John Fehr can be heard throughout the huge auditorium.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Aug. 26.—More tourists than ever are listening to the "crash" of a pin drop here this year.

John B. Fehr, who began to drop pins 34 years ago in the giant umbrella-shaped Latter Day Saint tabernacle, in Salt Lake City, is daily showing to crowds the genius of the "Mormon" Pioneer builders.

He drops the pin at the stand of the historic oval-shaped tabernacle, and the sound goes 'round and 'round.

"Can you hear me?" he softly whispers—and the audience in the rear of the building, 200 feet away, marvels at the acoustics.

Although Fehr drops the pin merely 10 inches, it is heard even on the first bounce.

To prove further the unsurpassed acoustic qualities of this unique structure, built by pioneers who tied the wooden uprights together with rawhide and wooden pegs, Fehr turns his back toward his audience and whispers again.

This time very faintly, after which he rubs his hands together. His listeners gaze in awe. ("The sound returns clearly to the back of hall.")

The structure was begun in 1863. Men were kept busy getting out timber and sandstone from the mountains near Salt Lake City until the building was sufficiently completed for religious services to be held in 1867.

A peek into the attic of the egg-shaped structure reveals that its huge wooden arches of lattice truss construction, which are held together with great wooden pegs and binding of cowhide, are as steadfast as the day they were put together.

Brigham Young, Mormon pioneer leader, directed its building. The mellow tones of one of the great organs of the world, the Mormon Tabernacle organ, played by Wade N. Stephens, each day echoes the country over at noon in free recitals. It is broadcast over radio station KSL, CBS.

The pipes, 7,000 in all, were carted 300 miles by ox team from southern Utah to Salt Lake City, where Joseph Ridges, an Englishman, erected them at the direction of Brigham Young. He used straight white pine and made glue from buffalo hides to fasten them together. The organ was completed in 1874, and its tones are almost human—among the most perfectly balanced in the world.

Mormon conferences, presided over by President Heber J. Grant, are held in Mormonism in the spring and autumn and are attended by thousands of Mormons from all parts of the world. The tabernacle is the mecca of Mormonism.

SAM H. COBB CHOSEN LEADER OF OHIO LEGION

PORTSMOUTH, Aug. 26.—(UP)—Succeeding Milt D. Campbell, of Cincinnati, Sam H. Cobb of Ohio State University, Columbus, today was state commander of the American Legion.

Cobb was elected unanimously at the closing business session of the department convention here yesterday.

James V. Suhr, of Cleveland, was unanimously elected vice commander. An expected fight for this post was averted when Eli Jensen of Springfield, who also was seeking election, seconded the nomination of Suhr.

J. R. Favret of Cincinnati was elected treasurer and the Rev. Earl L. Darcy of Ne Matamoras was named chaplain.

The women's auxiliary elected Mrs. Harry Marsh of Columbus, president.

Resolutions passed by the Legion at its concluding session included:

1. Urging the U. S. government to continue its experiments with zeppelins.
2. Elimination by the state of fee-paying to justices of the peace, placing them on a salary basis.
3. The construction of a new school building at the Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home, Xenia.
4. The restoration of all funds cut from orphans' home budget by Governor Davey. This resolution charged the functions of the home had been seriously hampered by the reductions.
5. A long time conservation program for the state.
6. A comprehensive program of stream purification.

The removal of Brig. Gen. Frank B. Hines as head of the U. S. veterans' bureau in Washington was asked on the ground he "catered to politics" rather than the best interests of the veterans.

SPANISH ANARCHY

NON-INTERVENTION by European nations in the war in Spain is still far from being assured. Meanwhile the conflict is spreading to every section of the land and the safety of foreigners, even though they are careful to show their neutrality, is increasingly endangered. The United States has been forced to issue another warning to its nationals that they remain in Spain at their own risk.

Apparently both sides are finding little difficulty in buying supplies, as passenger planes capable of being converted to military service are being flown into the country from as far away as Great Britain. Non-intervention, if it reaches the stage of formal agreement between important European powers, evidently is not going to be accompanied by a withholding of supplies. Anybody who can make a dollar by furnishing to the belligerents the means of carrying on a cruel war that will set the country back for decades, will, it seems, be allowed to do so.

While Europe trembles lest the taking of sides by one or more outside nations in Spain may bring on general conflict, it is a severe stricture on what we call civilization that there is no general disposition to do anything to make continuance of the war harder for either or both sides. The profit motive for purveyors of implements of war is too sacred, apparently, to tolerate anything of the sort.

Though under the joint resolution of Congress we placed an embargo on munitions and implements of war to Italy and Ethiopia, President Roosevelt has no power to do so in the case of civil conflict. If, however, the issue does arise here with reference to Spain, public sentiment will back up the administration in bringing moral pressure to bear.

AREN'T WE ALL?

CYNICS, to whom nothing is sacred, may find such entertainment as suits them in the lottery ticket trial in the Federal Court in New York in which it proved exceedingly difficult to obtain an unprejudiced jury from the panel because inquiry disclosed that most of the candidates admitted that they themselves frequently played "sweeps." The subject matter of the trial itself seems submerged in this incident.

Your sweepstakes player is one who takes an occasional flyer, not expecting to win, but hopeful he will be struck by the lightning of chance and thereby get a fortune. He is not in the same category as the World At A Glance

THE MAJORITY of campaign and convention speeches may seem just like so much guff prior to the end of the presidential campaign. The reason is clear—the magnitude of reality is overshadowing all the make-believe issues. A terrible conflagration has begun in Europe—and who is safe?

And especially who is safe with inflammatory statements being made in the United States also?

The civil war in Spain is not purely an internal issue. It is the march of fascism toward western Europe. And, because before that terror, another terror of the other extreme arises, due to the Fascist-instigated civil war, flames and counter-flames have burst forth toward all the remainder of the world.

A WARNING

President Roosevelt's peace speech at Chautauqua, N. Y., was a clean-cut, precise statement of the case as Washington sees it. In contrast to all the loose and unfactual and ill-tempered statements made at the same time at the Coughlin convention in Cleveland, the president's calm elucidation of facts stands out as a state document of historical importance, persons cognizant of the situation add.

In the meantime Father Coughlin was shouting his oft-repeated phrase at the Cleveland stadium when he was compelled to stop by exhaustion and fatigue—"Roosevelt is a Communist!"

That has been the burden of the campaign utterance of the Union party. Yet virtually every person who has contacted this column has expressed fear rather because of the vehemence of the utterances of Father Coughlin, Gerald L. K. Smith and Representative Lemke than of communism elsewhere.

If Communists would utter such vehement phrases, they perhaps would be subjected to inquisition.

ENDANGERING PEACE
Emotions are being heated to a not pitch in the United States. Matters that ought not to enter a political campaign—dangerous prejudices—are being aroused.

Suppose a group arises in the United States to demand that the Fascists be aided in order to "stop the spread of Communism." Or suppose a group arises to demand the reversed?

Or suppose a president be denounced if he bars shipment of war materials in order to keep the country neutral?

Or suppose he be attacked for conferring—on neutrality—with nations which a group in the United States opposes?

Indeed, there are a thousand ways in which a nation, aroused to an emotional pitch over purely prejudiced issues, can be plunged into war.

Nobody knows that better than the seasoned men in the state department in Washington. They realize how the United States was drawn into the World War. President Roosevelt, himself, has a tremendous knowledge of the vicissitudes in trying to keep a nation sober-minded.

Washington actually shudders over the large doses of emotional

FCC MEMBERS HURL CHARGES

WASHINGTON — Behind the mask of the Federal Communications Commission, a big blow-up is brewing over the investigation of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, and it may prove to be more spectacular than anything so far turned up by the probe.

Within the Commission the sensational charge has been hurled that several of its members are secretly attempting to sabotage the inquiry.

Some of the Commissioners were far from enthusiastic when the Senate ordered the agency to make the investigation. This was an open secret at the time. As the probe progressed, reports of internal dissension leaked out every once in a while.

But it wasn't until last week that this sub rosa pulling and hauling broke into the open. The way it happened was extraordinary.

The Wall Street Journal and Hearst news service carried a story that Samuel Becker, young, hard-hitting chief investigator, and John Bickley, his equally aggressive accountant assistant, were resigning. The inference was that they were being ousted. The source of the story was Commissioner Thad H. Brown, of Ohio, a Hoover-appointed hold-over from the old Radio Commission.

This report was entirely without foundation. It was promptly and decisively scotched by Commissioner Paul A. Walker, who is directly in charge of the telephone investigation, upon his return to Washington.

Why Brown spilled the resignation story at this particular time is not known.

NOTE—Two facts may have something to do with it. One is that Walker and Becker are preparing to resume public hearings shortly.

daily player of the races, from which the legal parimutuel "take" by at least nineteen state governments amounts to almost $9,000,000 a year.

Statisticians, moralists and other slightly dull folk, to say nothing of the persistent viewers with alarm who are always with us, may revolt from the thought that sweepstakes hopefuls are a menace to a properly organized society, but the Old Adam among us has a way of conducting such things. Even some among the most imposing of church members will "take a chance" when the time comes to risk a small sum for a large sum. At least that is an alleged fact.

Some of the most rigid of moralists among the unquestionably fairer sex have been known to view with benevolence a sweepstakes winner in the family. Usually, on the rare occasions when Father does happen to hit a winner, the sternly moral attitude relaxes. The time has arrived for leniency. An appreciative smile softens the features. In the affluent circumstances home is a good place, after all. Even Father, almost away wrong as he is, is bearable. The innocent children, exposed to the awful menace of gambling, seem to bear up under it. But, Father, be sure you do win!

"I'M ALL RIGHT, Gay." Across the confusion in the room, and Gay's own dazed bewilderment, she heard Wayne's quiet voice after Peggy had upset the tray of glasses. "But your dress is ruined."

Before she went to bed that night, Gay learned that Wayne was wrong in both statements. Her dress, Celeste was confident, could easily be repaired. But Doctor Wilson wasn't equally confident about the injury to Wayne's eyes from the splintered glass.

It was almost dawn before Gay could compose herself for sleep. She awoke early Sunday morning—her first thought of Wayne and the injury to his eyes.

How cool and self-possessed he had been, in that messy accident! Of course it hadn't been her fault, exactly, yet she felt terribly disturbed. He had saved her at his own expense.

If only she hadn't pretended to want a sandwich, to escape Breck's embarrassing love-making! But the love-making was really her fault, for she had led Breck on, deliberately, to annoy Wayne.

How promptly efficient Doctor Wilson had been, but how non-committal his words. "We can't possibly tell until later how bad the injury is." She knew she would never forgive herself if Wayne were permanently blinded.

Gay tried to shut out that earlier vision of Wayne holding Grace in his arms through dance after dance, the preceding night. Tried, too, to shut her inner ears to the refrain of Tim's words that kept beating in her mind: "Wayne Adams wouldn't do so bad for himself, marrying Grace Larimore."

Prepared against soft lace pillows, Gay began again to piece together what she had heard of Mrs. Larimore. Jean, who knew all the Pontchartrain members and their families and friends, and delighted to retail her information, had told Gay that Grace Larimore, almost two decades before, had been a popular Detroit debutante.

In the flush of her first social season, a series of business catastrophes had ruined her father, but almost before Grace could realize her change of circumstances, she had married Walter Larimore, a wealthy retired merchant. They had lived in New York, until his death the previous year, and now Grace was free, good-looking in an artful way, extremely rich, and rather attracted to handsome young men with whom she rode, danced, played golf, and flirted, to compensate for her many married years of retirement and devotion to a stodgy husband.

"She felt hard for Wayne Adams in New York, her maid told my girl friend," Jean had been hanging away Mrs. Larimore's sabbie wrap in the club coatroom, as she gave the information. "Now she's taken him under her nice, soft wing, introducing him around, you know, to Tim Keenan, and Charlie Pennell, and Christian Scott, and some other Detroit big shots, with lots of money, that can help out the boy friend with this proposition he and young Carter are trying to put across."

But Gay had refused to believe, until now, that Wayne actually meant to marry Mrs. Larimore. Suppose he did! He had never tried even for a second, Gay reminded herself grimly, to deceive her with the sabbie wrap. What did a kiss or two, and a little love-making with a check girl, mean to an eligible young man about town like Wayne Adams!

Yet he wasn't a mere "man about town," her thoughts persisted. He had a deep core of determination under that easy manner of his. Obviously, he believed in himself and his work, and was concentrating every effort to convince Detroit financiers of the value and efficiency of the Adams motor.

Gay felt too dispirited to enjoy the food.

Gay forced her thoughts into other channels.

Wasn't she the luckiest person on earth! Here she was, only a check girl at a city club, but privileged to masquerade as Tim Keenan's prospective fiancée, living for the moment in the lap of luxury.

Sunday morning breakfast in bed. And what a breakfast! Delicious food served piping hot in covered silver dishes; Sevres china to eat from; and Celeste, looking like the little French maid in a movie, to pour her coffee and wait upon her.

But Gay had no zest for the beautifully appointed meal. She felt too concerned about Wayne; too dispirited about herself, to enjoy the food. Even the basket of valley-lilies and camellias on the bed-side table, Tim's greeting for the morning, failed to bring more than a flicker of interest to her deep-blue eyes.

While the voluble Celeste was drawing the bath, Gay learned that Mr. Keenan and Doctor Wilson, with Mrs. Larimore, who was a "valley superbe horsewoman," had ridden away together, after early breakfast, across country to the Hunt club. The doctor had sent Miss Elwell a reminder to look in on his wife, before noon.

In the stockings and slippers stage of dressing, Gay heard that there were no signs as yet of Miss Pennell and Mr. Carter. Miss Pennell often slept the clock around, at Lake Paradise.

Gay smiled a little when Celeste mentioned Breck. Last night, after everyone had retired, she had heard him whistling, very softly, under her windows. But she had never had the slightest intention of keeping that secret rendezvous with him in the garden, so she had pretended not to hear. After a while, Breck had gone away—his footsteps crunching stealthily on the gravel path.

Celeste was devoting herself, silent for the moment, to Gay's slender eyebrows.

What about Wayne? Gay longed to know. Perhaps she could manage a casual inquiry—but at the same moment Celeste's pattering answered the question trembling on Gay's lips.

"And Mr. Adams, that valkyrie young gentleman that everyone like so much—he is handsome, that one!—He will have to stay in a dark room, with bandages over his eyes, for many days. A pity, n'est ce pas?"

Gay knew quite well she should have curbed Celeste's ready tongue long before this. But when you were dying to hear about some-

"Regardez, ma'mselle! You can bear the full sunlight with no makeup!"

Gay put aside the silver hand mirror. "But Mr. Adams—his eyes will be all right, soon?"

Celeste, fastening the belt about Gay's waist, murmured, "Volla, ma'mselle! You are ready!" And then, "Mais oui, Mr. Adams! Mrs. Wilson's maid says the doctor was very troubled last night. And Mrs. Larimore's maid says she cried very much. Mr. Adams may never see again. But to-day—" Celeste shrugged. "I have not heard yet. Maybe there will be good news, eh? But the eyes cut with glass—that is a serious thing, n'est pas?"

The pain in Gay's heart seemed unendurable. Suppose Wayne lost his eyesight forever?

If he hadn't thrust her out of harm's way, she might be in his place now; eyes bandaged; frantic with terror and fear—

She had decided to wander around the gardens for a while, before meeting the others for lunch, and was already at the bedroom door when her telephone rang. Mrs. Wilson was ready now to receive Miss Elwell.

Gay hesitated outside the sea-green suite, wishing there were some way to avoid the interview. She didn't want to be thanked again for what she had done. She had acted under compulsion. Besides, she was half afraid of Marian Wilson, and her large dark eyes that had such a disconcerting way of looking at, and through, you.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

A GAME JUMP OFTEN WISE
SOMETIMES a jump to game is wise. Such cases are of a general type, including unusual length in partner's suit, very little defensive strength and no shift of call by partner which will so well fit the joint holdings. Such a case occurred when I had for a partner Mr. Julian Goldman, donor of the famous Goldman trophy for pairs. He sat East. The occasion was one of the invitation duplicate matches for bridge experts, including such strong pairs as, Hynes and Bachner, Lochridge and Lent, Spingold and Unger, and Read and Churchill. Only North and South were vulnerable. South dealt and the first two players passed. As is quite common custom, third hand felt that he should show his long club suit, to provide for a lead of that suit in case fourth hand wanted to bid no trumps. Also to protect the dealer who might have passed powerful secondary bid strength. Mr. Goldman is an astute strategist. His side was not vulnerable and his partner had passed. Had his side been the vulnerable one he would either have doubled for a response or bid 1-Spade, in which case I would have shown my diamonds, and we would have played for a part game score. Hoping that opponents might fall into a major suit call trap, by bidding too high, my partner bid only 1-Diamond, just to see what would happen. South made a dubious overcall of 1-Spade. The time appeared for a jump assist, so I ended the auction with 5-Diamonds. That game for contributed to our winning next to top score for the evening. Liggett and Rapp taking top score.

The opening lead was the Ace of clubs, as North had bid that suit. When partner did not call for a shift, dummy was put in with the K of clubs. The J of diamonds was led. Declarer's Ace picked up North's lone K. There was no use in bothering to again lead trumps. South could have his good Q later on. Declarer ran off three top spade tricks. On the third one dummy's lowest heart was discarded. The fate of the contract apparently depended upon which opponent held the missing K of hearts, with the odds in favor of its lying in the North hand.

Dummy ruffed declarer's last spade. Neither of the declaring side held any more black cards. The time was ripe to give South his Q of trumps, thus forcing him to lead a heart, or else allowing dummy to discard down to a lone heart and have declarer ruff a black card lead. Declarer had played his cards well. Of course South had to lead a heart, giving our side game. It would have been the same had South, instead of North, held the K of hearts.

DIET AND HEALTH

How Much Vitamin C is Contained in Milk?

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
MILK IS THE almost perfect and complete food, but since the discovery of the vitamins it has been generally believed that average milk could not be depended on to furnish vitamin D and C.

These are usually deliberately added to the milk diet of the infant and child in the form of cod liver oil and orange juice. Vitamin D can readily be created in excess posing nearly any fatty substance to sunlight or ultraviolet light, and advantage is taken of this by various dairies, certified milk producers and by the manufacturers of evaporated milk, to put vitamin D milk at the disposal of their customers.

The amount of vitamin C in milk depends partly on the breed of cattle and partly on the stage of lactation. Vitamin C has been identified as ascorbic acid—so named because it prevents the occurrence of scurvy, or scurvy—and it has been found that the average human requirement is 27 milligrams daily.

Guernsey and Jersey cattle produce about 13 milligrams per quart of milk. Holsteins about 10 milligrams, and Brown Swiss about 15 milligrams.

Feeding Does Great Deal
Feeding, of course, has a great deal to do with the amount of vitamin C in milk, but certified milk from stall-fed cows who are given a well balanced, uniform ration throughout the year, will display a uniform excellence of vitamin C at all seasons.

The idea has been general among children's specialists and nutritionists that since vitamin C is somewhat unstable and easily affected by heat, its potency would be considerably reduced by storage, oxidation and pasteurization.

But this need not always be true. At the annual meeting of the American Association of Medical Milk Commissioners in Kansas City, in May, 1936, Professor W. H. Ridgell presented the results of studies at the Kansas experiment station which showed that certified milk (which means specially good milk), from the major breed of cattle, contained an average of 25 milligrams of vitamin C per quart. A milk of this sort is obviously a sufficient source of vitamin C without going to the necessity of supplementing it with orange juice. Certified milk is required to be fresh when delivered, and does not suffer any appreciable loss of vitamin C through aging.

Burns Books Bright Array of Guest Stars for Music Hall Program Thursday

ARKANSAN FILLS SPOT VACATED BY BING CROSBY

Mary McCormic, Merle Oberon, Ella Logan, Pat O'Brien on Schedule

Bob Burns steps into the role of "Keeper of the Music Hall" Thursday night with an impressive list of guest stars. From the top of the list of favorites among grand opera singers, screen actresses, singers of "hot" tunes and film actors, the droll Arkansas comedian selected Mary McCormic, Merle Oberon, Ella Logan, Pat O'Brien and the Radio Rogues.

Bing Crosby, the regular master of ceremonies, tossed the keys to Bob Burns and went on a vacation. Burns' two-months reign begins Thursday night, the full-hour variety broadcast to be presented over the WEAF-NBC network at 9 p. m.

Merle Oberon and Pat O'Brien, film players, will be interviewed, but just who will interview them, Burns hasn't decided.

Mary McCormic, famous grand opera singer, like Burns, was born in Arkansas, at Belleville, a hamlet 140 miles across the Ozarks from Van Buren, birthplace of Robin Burns. Miss McCormic and Burns will discuss their early days in Arkansas, the opera singer trying to beat Burns at his own game. In addition, she will sing several operatic selections which made her famous.

The three Radio Rogues—Henry Taylor, Jimmy Hollywood and Eddie Bartel—are famous for their impersonation of celebrities, and, for comedy sketches. They have appeared in several movie shorts and in "Twenty Million Sweethearts" and "Every Night at Eight."

Merle Oberon, born in Australia, got her start in British pictures. After several successful films, she went to Hollywood in 1934.

Pat O'Brien started in films portraying the career of a newspaper man employing various methods of beating the deadline. His success in newspaper stories led to his appearance in a variety of roles, where a hard-boiled, fast-talking character is featured.

Ella Logan attracted Broadway's attention two years ago by singing torrid songs with a fascinating Scotch accent. Night club and radio engagements came rapidly.

Bob Burns' assignment as keeper of the Hall does not mean a let-up in his Arkansas stories, Jimmy Dorsey and his band and the Paul Taylor chorus will supply musical entertainment.
